2022 MAZDA CX-5 REVIEW: EXPECT MORE, PAY LESS

Craig Cole - edited

The 2022 Mazda CX-5 is the Target of compact SUVs. Simply put, the CX-5 provides an upscale experience at a reasonable price.

Bullseye

With its smooth, contoured sheet metal and attractive proportions, the CX-5's designers hit the bullseye. This is one of the prettiest small SUVs around, far more appealing than the robotic Honda CR-V, overly faceted Hyundai Tucson or blocky Toyota RAV4.

No matter the trim level, the CX-5 comes standard with all-wheel drive, a new perk for 2022. Amenities like Android Auto and Apple CarPlay, adaptive cruise control with stop-and-go capability, blind-spot monitoring, rear cross-traffic alert and LED headlamps with automatic high beams are all included at no extra charge. This means the CX-5 isn't just a pretty face, it's a good value, too. The big reason to pay for a higher trim level, however, is because of what's under the hood.

A Torquetonic Shift

A familiar and amenable 2.5-liter turbocharged four-cylinder engine provides the hustle in the CX-5 Turbo and Signature models, delivering either 227 horsepower if you fill the tank with 87-octane regular gasoline

WHAT ARE CERTIFIED PRE-OWNED CARS?

Jim Henry - edited & Mazdausa.com

CERTIFIED PRE-OWNED

Here are some basics regarding certified pre-owned vehicles. With a shortfall of new cars and trucks this year, CPO vehicles are an important source of vehicles that look new and have a manufacturer warranty. CPOs expand by 15% the new car market, estimated at 16 million cars this year by Cox Automotive. A CPO car in 2022 may be a great option for car-buyers except for die-hards who must have new.

To qualify as certified pre-owned, a vehicle first of all can't be too old, or have too many miles on the odometer. Vehicles that are turned in at the end of a lease are prime candidates to be resold as certified pre-owned.

Assuming it qualifies in terms of age and miles, a certified pre-owned vehicle has to undergo a multi-point inspection prescribed by the factory, and the vehicle will receive reconditioning, for basic wear-and-tear items, and any minor issue turned up in the inspection.

Besides the required reconditioning, a factory-backed limited warranty is the other advantage to certified pre-owned, as opposed to buying a non-certified used vehicle. The certified pre-owned buyer gets whatever remains of the original owner's factory warranty, plus an additional warranty on top.

We understand the importance of the investment you have made with your vehicle purchase. Our Shrewsbury car repair center is or 256 hp if you spring for 93-octane premium. Whether you're a skinflint or spendy at the gas pump, you get nearly the same amount of torque, 310 pound-feet with regular or 320 when burning premium. Performance is never an issue in the turbocharged CX-5, which can hit 60 mph in the low-to-mid 6-second range.

With just six forward gears, this smooth, responsive automatic transmission still helps deliver admirable fuel economy. According to the EPA, this CX-5 stickers at 22 mpg city, 27 mpg highway and 24 mpg combined. In mixed, mostly interstate driving, I'm averaging 27 mpg on the nose, which isn't too bad for an all-wheel-drive SUV with this much scoot.

The rest of the CX-5's driving dynamics are mostly great. The steering is nicely dialed in, neither too light nor artificially heavy. As you navigate corners, this SUV feels like it's pivoting about an axis somewhere near its center, feeling light on its feet and unusually precise for a family vehicle. The brake pedal is nicely weighted as well, and the ride is smooth without ever feeling sloppy. The luxury-like experience continues even at highway speeds, where the interior stays nice and quiet.

Premium and Proud of it

The CX-5's biggest claim to fame is its luxury car-rivaling interior. The cabin of this mass-market SUV is tastefully designed and beautifully built, with plenty of upscale materials and high-quality controls. The dashboard is elegantly simple. Other upscale appointments include soft plastics on the rear door panels, a rarity in this class of vehicle, as well as a lovely woven headliner. The climate controls are mounted at the bottom of the center stack, and they're immediately intuitive. The traditional mechanical shifter is reassuring thanks to its placement and slick action.

Higher-end versions of the CX-5 feature a 10.3-inch screen, which is wide, narrow, and set far back on the dashboard.

Android Auto and Apple CarPlay are both standard, though you'll still need a cable if you want to use either smartphone-mirroring system, so plan accordingly. A wireless charging pad is included in Turbo and Signature models, though you can't use CarPlay or Android Auto while charging, of course.

This SUV's front seats are comfortable. Both front chairs are heated and ventilated, and the outboard rear positions also feature butt warmers. Passengers in the back have enough headroom and leg space.

The CX-5 is a good cargo hauler, with the rear backrests folded down, there's nearly 60 cubic feet of cargo space.

High Quality at a Low Price

This 2022 Mazda CX-5 Turbo checks out for $38,670 including $1,225 in — destination fees, making it quite reasonable, at least by 2022 standards where everything is expensive. For a little context, the entry-level S model checks out for about $27,500 and the range-topping Signature trim goes for about $41,000. On both ends of the spectrum, these prices are comparable to other compact SUVs, though the RAV4 and Escape can both be pushed a couple grand beyond the most expensive CX-5, despite not feeling nearly as special.

Overall, this Mazda utility vehicle is stylish, pleasant to drive and comes with a lovely interior. If Mazda were aiming to deliver a premium yet affordable vehicle, it certainly hit the target.
